Planning Sustainable Places Environmental Mapping

The 69 Planning Sustainable Places (PSP) projects from 2013, 2015, 2017 and 2019 are found in a variety of watersheds, and in forest conservation and restoration areas in the region. The shaded areas in blue note where projects have taken place. One project, the Wayfinding System Plan [2019] encompassed the whole 8-county region. It is counted as two projects due to its funding on both sides of the state line. It is not included in the calculations or lists below, which will take 67 projects into account.

LEAVENWORTH Conservation Priority Moderate

Over half of the projects, 36 of the 67, occur within the Blue River watershed which This map shows the areas of conservation priority in the region, with darker crosses state lines and county boundaries. About 33%, 22 of 67, occur within the green colors indicating higher priority. Most Planning Sustainable Places Turkey Creek watershed which is also fed by location on both sides of the state line projects consist of areas of low to moderate priority. Many also include small and crosses county boundaries. Twelve percent, 8 of 67, occur within Mill Creek areas of high conservation priority. watershed in Johnson County. A detailed list of the projects and the impacted watershed are found on the following page.

This map shows the areas of restoration priority in the region, which range from white as the lowest priority, to yellow as the moderate priority, to rust as the highest priority areas. While many PSP projects have small areas of high restoration priority, projects with smaller areas are often in urban, low-priority areas, whereas projects with larger areas include much more moderate- and high-priority restoration land.
